

Ways To Celebrate Thanksgiving - 2020 Style

Being Thankful In The Face Of Difficult Times — For most, 2020 has been a trying year. We've all taken on new responsibilities and had to endure more than our fair share of hard times.

All of this makes feeling thankful difficult. The way that we do things this year will be different. But it is still important that we recall fond memories and make new ones the best we can.

We are thankful for each of our customers and friends who have helped support our family with your patronage. We wish you the best this holiday season.

Starting New Traditions: A Different Kind Of Thanksgiving

Create A Unique Thanksgiving Experience - Last year, planning for Thanksgiving would have consisted of figuring out if you need the 25 or 30-pound bird and if you should do canned cranberry sauce or fresh. This year, Thanksgiving won't be a big blow out party with all of your friends and family - but that doesn't mean you can't celebrate.

- Staying Home - Instead of taking a long road trip or short plane ride, consider staying at home for a Thanksgiving celebration with just your household.
- You Don't Need A Whole Turkey - Unless you really love leftover turkey, chances are a small dinner with the family in your household won't require a large turkey. With so much more demand for small turkeys and an even smaller supply of them available in general, consider just getting a turkey breast or turkey legs this year.
- Go Virtual With Family - If you usually travel for Thanksgiving, you can save on gas and heartache by doing a virtual Thanksgiving meet-up this year. Many video chat services are available to help you connect with loved ones you may not normally see during the holidays.
- Black Friday Sales - Black Friday shopping is a holiday tradition for many families trying to find those sweet deals after the big meal. Many stores that had previously re-opened for special deals on Thanksgiving evening have now decided to be closed in 2020. Online shopping can still get you great deals without having to get out of your PJs.
- Create New Traditions - 2020 is already making things plenty different this year. Your menu and your celebration of Thanksgiving can embrace this change. Add a non-traditional menu item to your line-up. If you're not a fan of "A Charlie Brown Thanksgiving" or the usual holiday movie marathon, find a different theme like bad sci-fi movies or your favorite slapstick comedies.
